

We define soliton equations of parabolic type, prove a criterion for solvability of local holomorphic Cauchy problems for them in terms of the scattering data of the initial conditions, and deduce that every local holomorphic solution extends analytically to a globally meromorphic function of the spatial variable.